Trash & Treasure

This is a poker game for two or four players that uses parts of 7-Card No Peek and Texas Hold‘em with some twists.

SETUP

- Deal each player 7 cards. Players do not look at their cards.
- Place 3 cards face up in the middle of the table. These are community cards and in both players poker hands.

WILD CARDS

- For the dealer, player 1, low odd diamonds are wild: 3♦, 5♦, and 7♦, plus the 2 jokers.
- For the player 2, low even diamonds are wild: 2♦, 4♦, and 6♦, plus the 2 jokers.
- For player 3, same as player 1.
- For player 4, same as player 2.

PLAY

- Player 2 turns over their first card, and with the community cards, determines the best poker hand.
- Player 3 does the same and repeats the process until their poker hand is better than player 2’s.
- This repeats clockwise around the table, but when a player has 4 cards revealed, the player must discard one of the 4 cards before revealing a new card. They also have the option of discarding their next unrevealed card. This is risky given that you don’t know what the card is.
- Discarded cards are place in your trash cards. Eventually you’ll have three trash cards.
- The opponent to your right can use your trash cards, but they must choose between the trash cards and the 3 community cards in the middle. It’s the same around the table, each player can use the trash cards of the player to their left. You can change your mind any time, but you can’t use both community cards and trash cards when figuring out your best hand. Sometimes one player’s trash is another player’s treasure!
- If a player reveals a diamond face-card (J♦, Q♦, or K♦), 3 cards are taken from the top of the deck. One of them may be selected by that player to replace one of the 3 community cards. The new cards not selected are discarded, unrevealed, and out of the game. If a card is replaced, it is also discarded and out of the game.
- If a player is out of cards, the game is not over for them. The players that still have cards must continue taking turns while skipping those who have run out of cards. You also skip the leader until someone else becomes the leader or there no other players left. Every player must complete their trash cards set of three. The selection of the trash cards has the potential to change the outcome of the game for any player.

In this example, player 1's full house beats player 4's flush (the 2♦ and the joker are wild for player 4), but player 4 can use player 1's Trash Cards instead of the Community Cards and win with a straight flush.
